What other thoughts might influence their behavior?

The number

contested

of seats being

regional wise

Constituencies

that have the

representation

highest

candidate

Candidates
switching party
affilitations
between elections
receives much attention

Recognises parties as either national or state parties based on their performance in previous elections.

Measure by looking at the average number of terms served by incumbent candidates.

P. Keerthiga

Significant irregularities in election data.

Provides free distribution of items

They use a combination of muscle, money and providing services to retain a grasp over their seat.

Experienced candidates tend to be more

protected

Manifesto given is attractive

Electorl

manipulation can take place at the stage of voter registration

Lesser experienced candidates can be chuckde out by their own parties in greater numbers,

Does

What behavior have we observed? What can we imagine them doing?

What are their fears, frustrations, and anxieties? What other feelings might influence their behavior?

Feels

